

BUDDY POPPIES ARE Important

BUDDY POPPY

Since 1922, the Buddy Poppy has been an integral part of the VFW community. As VFW's official memorial flower, the Poppy represents the blood shed by American service members. It reiterates that VFW will not forget their sacrifices.

The Poppy movement was inspired by Canadian Army Col. John McCrae's famous poem, "In Flanders Fields." Poppies were originally distributed by the Franco-American Children's League to benefit children in the devastated areas of France and Belgium following WWI.

In 1922, VFW conducted a campaign and got Poppies from France. Members soon discovered it took too long to get the flowers in from France and they came up with a better idea. Disabled, hospitalized and aging veterans could make the paper flowers and ship them out to the members for distribution.

And so it was known, for veterans in VA hospitals and domiciliaries and in state veterans homes, every day would be VFW Buddy Poppy Day. These men and women assemble the Poppies, tie them in bunches of 10 and pack them in boxes of 500, 1,000 or 2,000 for shipment to the Posts and Ladies Auxiliaries.

VFW pays the disabled veteran for the work. In most cases, this extra money provides additional income for the worker to pay for the little luxuries, which make hospital life more tolerable.

Furthermore, Poppy assembly is often used as a therapy program to provide exercise for fingers and hands crippled by wounds, disease and the effects of old age.

Another reason Poppies are so important is because all proceeds from distribution are used for veterans welfare or for the well being of their needy dependents and the orphans of veterans.

More than 1,300 children of veterans have been, or are being cared for in the VFW National Home in Eaton Rapids, Mich., thanks to a portion of Poppy funds.

As your Post's Buddy Poppy Chairman, you need to build enthusiasm for this program. Reiterate to your fellow members the two-fold importance of Poppies. It's truly all about veterans helping veterans and living up to VFW's motto of "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living."

Recognition is Important Too!

It is only human nature to desire and appreciate recognition for a job well done. A word of praise often means more than any kind of financial reward—especially if it is done publicly. It is in recognition of these truths that special citation awards are made available through the VFW Department Headquarters or Buddy Poppy Chairman. Check with them to determine the rules in effect in your Department. Don't overlook the faithful Post or Auxiliary member who goes on the streets each year to distribute Buddy Poppies. Recognize their efforts at Post or Ladies Auxiliary meetings.

HAVE A SUCCESSFUL Campaign

There are two critical components to conducting a successful campaign: planning and enthusiasm. Planning ensures nothing will be left to chance and there will be plenty of Poppies for distribution. And the more enthusiasm you demonstrate, the greater your chances are of inspiring others to help make this year's campaign a true success.

Here are some important things to consider when preparing for your Buddy Poppy distribution:

- Identify potential volunteers within your Post and Ladies Auxiliary and gather them together for an informational meeting explaining the purpose of the Buddy Poppy campaign.
- Plan on each volunteer distributing 200 Poppies. It sounds like a lot, but with the right placement in the community, 200 will go fast.
- Request from your Department Headquarters an order form to purchase your Poppies.
- Multiply the number of volunteers by 200 and that's approximately how many you should order. Be sure to place your order at least three months before your first distribution date.
- Choose distribution dates. Memorial Day is always a popular time, but any time is a good time to distribute this memorial flower.
- Stake out key distribution venues in advance. Choose high traffic areas and determine the number of workers you need to cover the locations. Ideal locations include storefronts, office or factory entrances and recreational areas.
- Make sure you get permission from the business owners before setting up shop.
- Photocopy the Buddy Poppy flyer found in this book and post it around town in key areas such as the Post Office, coffee shops, gas stations, etc. It will let people know when and where they can get a Buddy Poppy.
- If your town newspaper has a community calendar section, be sure to let the editor know about two weeks in advance that you'd like to place your Poppy announcement in the calendar. Follow the sample news release found in this book to let the media know about your campaign.
- Encourage your volunteers to smile and be enthusiastic during the distribution. If they appear friendly, it will project a good image for VFW. Furthermore, make sure they wear their VFW caps.
- Remind your volunteers that they are not "selling" Buddy Poppies, but distributing them with the hope of getting donations.

If you follow these simple steps, your Buddy Poppy campaign is sure to be a success.

ALTERNATIVE POPPY

Distribution

Many factors could lead to poor Buddy Poppy distributions. Perhaps you live in a bustling city like Chicago or New York City where folks aren't as eager to stop on the streets. Or maybe you live in a town with only 600 people and you'd be lucky to hand out 200 Poppies in a week. Or perhaps your members are primarily older and in failing health.

If any of these sound familiar, perhaps you should try a different approach to handing out the Poppies and raising funds for needy veterans.

Below is a list of alternative methods for distributing Buddy Poppies:

- Sell coat hanger wreaths made out of Poppies. Use a child-sized wire coat hanger and bend it into a circle. Straighten the hook to make a ground stake. Wind the stems of about 50 Poppies around the wire to complete your wreath. Popular around Memorial Day.
- Make a "Wall of Remembrance" at your Post. Patrons can request a Poppy in honor of a loved one who has died. Their name gets placed on the wall with a Poppy hanging next to it. Honorees' names can be typed on note cards with the Poppies stapled to them.
- Use Poppies to make table centerpieces that can be raffled off at Post suppers.
- Why not contact another civic organization in your community and ask if you can give a small presentation on the Buddy Poppy. Be sure to have plenty with you, as you'll likely get several "takers."
- Set up a booth at county fairs, public forums and school events.

Let your imagination and that of your volunteers guide you in distributing these beautiful red flowers.

BUDDY POPPY CAMPAIGN BENEFITS NEEDY VETERANS

Members of Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) Post 13999 and its Ladies Auxiliary will be distributing Buddy Poppies in front of Joe's Cafe from 8-11 a.m. on May 24. According to Post Commander Bob Jones, VFW By-Laws state that the proceeds from Poppy distributions must be used to benefit disabled and needy veterans and the widows and orphans of deceased veterans.

"What better way to help our veterans in the community than by distributing this little flower of remembrance," Jones said. "We encourage everyone in town to stop by Joe's Cafe and get a Buddy Poppy to help honor the memory of those who have made the ultimate sacrifice."

In 1923, VFW became the first veterans organization to promote a nationally organized campaign for the annual distribution of Poppies, which are assembled by disabled or hospitalized veterans. More than 14 million Poppies are assembled today and VFW and Ladies Auxiliary members raise more than $15 million annually from the distributions.

Founded in 1899, VFW is the nation's oldest major veterans organization with more than 1.7 million members.
